

It's Green Day!

Besides wearing green (to bring you luck) for St. Patrick's Day, how about doing something "green" for the Earth?

Here are a few suggestions but you can look over the Kids for Saving Earth web site to find many more.

1. Buy an energy efficient light bulb- click here to help you decide. LEDs are the best but they are expensive
2. Be an Earth Inspector and inspect your house to learn how to make it more Earth friendly.
3. Walk through your home and turn off all the lights and electrical items that you aren't using.
4. Ask your parents to help you find worn-out cloth that you can use for rags. Create a rag drawer or basket to have handy. Use the rags instead of paper towels.
5. Go through your closet to find clothes you are no longer wearing. Give them to a charity so someone else can "reuse" them.
6. Take a shower in 1/2 the time you usually do to save water.
7. Go shopping with your family and check out the "green" cleaning products. Choose one to try but make sure it isn't a greenwashed product.
8. Send a letter to the President and ask him to help protect the Earth from global warming.
9. Bring books you no longer use to your classroom for a used book sale to earn funds for the Earth.
10. Draw a picture of your favorite precious species and email it to Kids for Saving Earth.
