

Eco Activities Day

Shop Green Holidays

Shopping green for the holidays may be a little difficult at first but it's a great way to protect the Earth and teach others about Earth-saving.

Include a copy of the above note in all your presents so that you can help spread the green shopping message.

1. Make a coupon gift. For example. "This coupon is worth two hours of yard work."
2. Look for products that are made from recycled materials. You can google "recycled product" or go to Kids for Saving Earth.org and click on Green Shop.
3. A basket of organic food products is a good idea.
4. Green cleaning products may seem strange as a holiday gift but you will be giving the gift of health as well.
5. Find old scrap material or old clothing that is not reusable and make "wrapping bags."

Ask for help from an adult. You can sew them, or buy some glue tape and iron the seams together.

6. Give your teacher a membership to Kids for Saving Earth for your entire classroom.
7. Give a gift pass to a state park for your entire family.
8. How about giving something as simple as a solar powered flash light? No more batteries!

www.kidsforsavingearth.org

Eco Activities Day

Shop Green Holidays

Shopping green for the holidays may be a little difficult at first but it's a great way to protect the Earth and teach others about Earth-saving.

Include a copy of the above note in all your presents so that you can help spread the green shopping message.

1. Make a coupon gift. For example. "This coupon is worth two hours of yard work."
2. Look for products that are made from recycled materials. You can google "recycled product" or go to Kids for Saving Earth.org and click on Green Shop.
3. A basket of organic food products is a good idea.
4. Green cleaning products may seem strange as a holiday gift but you will be giving the gift of health as well.
5. Find old scrap material or old clothing that is not reusable and make "wrapping bags."

Ask for help from an adult. You can sew them, or buy some glue tape and iron the seams together.

6. Give your teacher a membership to Kids for Saving Earth for your entire classroom.
7. Give a gift pass to a state park for your entire family.
8. How about giving something as simple as a solar powered flash light? No more batteries!

www.kidsforsavingearth.org

Eco Activities Day

Shop Green Holidays

Shopping green for the holidays may be a little difficult at first but it's a great way to protect the Earth and teach others about Earth-saving.

Include a copy of the above note in all your presents so that you can help spread the green shopping message.

1. Make a coupon gift. For example. "This coupon is worth two hours of yard work."
2. Look for products that are made from recycled materials. You can google "recycled product" or go to Kids for Saving Earth.org and click on Green Shop.
3. A basket of organic food products is a good idea.
4. Green cleaning products may seem strange as a holiday gift but you will be giving the gift of health as well.
5. Find old scrap material or old clothing that is not reusable and make "wrapping bags."

Ask for help from an adult. You can sew them, or buy some glue tape and iron the seams together.

6. Give your teacher a membership to Kids for Saving Earth for your entire classroom.
7. Give a gift pass to a state park for your entire family.
8. How about giving something as simple as a solar powered flash light? No more batteries!

www.kidsforsavingearth.org

Eco Activities Day

Shop Green Holidays

Shopping green for the holidays may be a little difficult at first but it's a great way to protect the Earth and teach others about Earth-saving.

Include a copy of the above note in all your presents so that you can help spread the green shopping message.

1. Make a coupon gift. For example. "This coupon is worth two hours of yard work."
2. Look for products that are made from recycled materials. You can google "recycled product" or go to Kids for Saving Earth.org and click on Green Shop.
3. A basket of organic food products is a good idea.
4. Green cleaning products may seem strange as a holiday gift but you will be giving the gift of health as well.
5. Find old scrap material or old clothing that is not reusable and make "wrapping bags."

Ask for help from an adult. You can sew them, or buy some glue tape and iron the seams together.

6. Give your teacher a membership to Kids for Saving Earth for your entire classroom.
7. Give a gift pass to a state park for your entire family.
8. How about giving something as simple as a solar powered flash light? No more batteries!

www.kidsforsavingearth.org