

Write On & On & On . . .

One of the simplest, most helpful things you can do to save the Earth is write a letter! Your opinion counts, and you can have a lot of influence! Write to an elected official, business leader or newspaper editor. If an important decision is being made that will help protect the Earth, your letter could make a difference. If you want to write about what worries you about the Earth, go ahead and tell our leaders what you think!!

Today, make a list of names and addresses of important people -- maybe your school principal, or your elected representative or your country's top leader. This link will help you find contact info for elected officials: <http://www.kidsforsavingearth.org/Ecoepals.pdf>
Be sure to remember your newspaper editors, too.

Take the Kids for Saving Earth Letter Writing Challenge!

We challenge you to write letters to at least three leaders of your choice. Make sure they know you're a Kids for Saving Earth kid, because united we're even stronger. When you've completed the challenge, email us copies of your letters and let us know who got them. We'll award you a Defender of the Planet certificate. On your mark, get set, WRITE!
